The Honorable Archer L. Yeatts, III, U. of Richmond '64, a native of the Commonwealth of Virginia, practiced law for 28 years until his election to the General District Court of Henrico County, Virginia, in July of 1995. Brother Yeatts served as the Fraternity's Legal Counsel for 15 years and was elected to the National Board of Directors in 2001. He and his wife Elaine live in Richmond, Virginia, and are the proud grandparents of Samuel Archer Timberlake.

The Leadership Continuum

Dear Brothers and Friends of Sigma Phi Epsilon:

EDGE, Carlson Leadership Academy, Conclave, Ruck Leadership Institute, and the Tragos Quest to Greece—what do all of these have in common?

Each one has a component of leadership development, either personal or chapter, is part of what we call the Leadership Continuum, and is funded, in whole or in part, by the Sigma Phi Epsilon Educational Foundation.

It all begins with EDGE, where we invite a new member to begin learning about responsible decision-making skills and the living of a balanced life, to examine his values, to set personal goals. Instead of a focus on the pitfalls of bad decisions, the program promotes the Sound Mind, Sound Body philosophy from the beginning. This year, we hope to reach more than one-third of our newest Brothers through EDGE. One year in the future, we hope to reach them all.

In January and February, 2006, over 2,000 undergraduates, alumni and volunteers traveled to nine cities to participate in a Carlson Leadership Academy, named in recognition of the endowment gift by Curt Carlson, Minnesota '37, in the early 1990s. The theme was Think Big! Chapter officers received training in chapter management from some of our committed and experienced alumni and volunteers, while others discussed improved practices for our Alumni and Volunteer Corporations to better support our undergraduate chapters. At the banquet on Saturday night, the outstanding chapters and seniors in the region were recognized, as was a volunteer who had distinguished himself in long service to the Fraternity.

In August, 2005, over 1,300 Brothers of all ages and from all over the country descended on Nashville, Tennessee, for the 49th Grand Chapter Conclave. At Conclave, leadership development occurs as undergraduates participate in and chair committees, review and debate proposed legislation, elect national officers and the Board of Directors, hear about successful chapters and spend time with their Brothers from all over, discussing ways to improve their own chapter's performance.

This year, the eighth annual Ruck Leadership Institute, named for Frank J. Ruck, Jr., Michigan '46 (Grand Treasurer, Grand President, Order of the Golden Heart, leader in the interfraternity world and in the development of the Balanced Man Program), returns to Williamsburg, Virginia. The Ruck is focused on teaching the few to impact the many, and over 120 exceptional undergraduates will build visions for their chapters' future and hone those tools of leadership that will make them outstanding SigEps and leaders. Already Ruck has paid huge dividends for the Fraternity. Each graduate has returned to lead his own chapter, and many have served or are serving as Regional Directors, on the Headquarters staff, or as volunteers for our chapters.

If any of you have had the pleasure of being in the presence of a SigEp who has participated in the Quest, re-named at the Nashville Conclave as the result of a gift from Bill Tragos, Washington U. in St. Louis '56 (Grand President and Order of the Golden Heart), and Lilli Tragos, you know that it was life-changing. These young men learned about the origins of Sound Mind and Sound Body and delved into the Greek philosophy and ideals that formed the genesis of Sigma Phi Epsilon. They too are changing the face of this Fraternity and their campuses.

Elsewhere in this publication, you will read about our Foundation, its successes, its needs, its participants and leadership, and its contributions to the Fraternity. If ever there was such a thing as a symbiotic relationship, it is that which exists between the two entities, which, while separate Virginia corporations, are joined at the hip and in the heart in their determination to provide Balanced Leaders for the World's Communities. Our "Foundation" is the "foundation" of much of what we are able to provide to our undergraduates.

I commend the remainder of this Journal to your reading and encourage you to find a way to be a part of a new day in Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Fraternally,

Archer L. Yeatts, III
Grand President

COMMENTARY FROM YOUR BROTHERS

Spring Issue Kudos

I really enjoyed the recent edition of The Journal. A very well done issue with a wide range of interesting articles! Great work!

Patrick Murphrey,
Christopher Newport '04

Thoughts on Scholar Athletes

Our Spring, 2006, issue has a very disturbing statement. On page nine at the top, you state that a varsity athlete who does not have a high GPA does not add value to a chapter. WOW! That does not sound like the SigEp that I used to know. I thought we were trying to develop a Balanced Man. How about a Brother who is involved in the community, a loving Brother and mentor, eager to learn, and is actively involved in his chapter? But this Brother only has an average GPA. Does he not hold value to his chapter? Does an athlete who has a high GPA but falls short of our Balanced Man principles add value to his chapter? I know it probably was not meant the way it was written, but it sure seems like it.

Chuck Grayson,
West Chester '80

Editor's Note: Membership in SigEp requires that all Brothers strive for high academic achievement. Perhaps the statement should be amended to read that any SigEp undergraduate who does not have a high GPA does not add value to his chapter. Scholar athletes epitomize the Balanced Man Ideal because they must have a high GPA (Sound Mind) and maintain peak physical health (Sound Body). They set an example for all of us to emulate.

Reflections on Washington's Rebirth

This past Saturday evening I attended a SigEp alumni event at Past Grand President and Order of the Golden Heart recipient Mike Williams', U. of Memphis '72, house. Those of us who know SigEp know that there is no one who has more dedication and love for our Fraternity than Mike and his wife Gay.

All of those who attended were from Tennessee Beta. We had a great time, the only disappointment was that our team, the University of Memphis, lost to UCLA in the Elite 8 game.

While at Mike's house I thought about the most recent edition of The Journal that I had received.

The cover stressed the efforts that we are trying to make to get away from the frat boy image.

While I agree that the beer guzzling, womanizing image has no place in our Fraternity or any other college organization, however, I ask that you please do not fall into the same circle as other media outlets.

Let me try to explain. At our event, there were brothers from the '60s, '70s, '80s, '90s and beyond. These men were educators, entrepreneurs, attorneys, and most important loving husbands and fathers. They have served our country and community in many ways.

All that I ask is that you not blanket indict all of us who came before you and did things differently. We worked diligently to support our universities and communities.

I am proud more than ever to be a SigEp, not because of the past, but because of the present and the future. It takes courage to change. I admire each and every one of you all who have had the vision to move us forward

Bob Stewart,
U. of Memphis '73

Those of us who achieved maturity as young men in the New York Beta Chapter at Cornell University will be very encouraged, as I was, by the article in the Spring, 2006, issues of The Journal about the "Rebirth" of the SigEp chapter at the University of Washington.

What a tremendous undertaking. But aided by the support of the national organization, chapter alumni, and the "Sound Mind and Sound Body" program in addition to their own dedication and enthusiasm, they appear to have made great strides. I'm sure they will be completely successful.

God bless them and all of you who have supported their efforts, as well as all of those who are making similar efforts to get things back on track at New York Beta.

Robert A. Pinkley,
Cornell '52

A SigEp Mom's Reaction to Story on Brother with Tourette Syndrome

I found the Marc Elliot (Washington U. in St. Louis '08) story to be a wonderful and very inspirational article to read. Here is a young man, who most people would view as having a severe handicap, but instead, has brought such admiration, encouragement, and love to his Fraternity Brothers. What an honor it must be to have Marc's involvement and all his accomplishments in the SigEp Fraternity!

Also, kudos to the columnist (Eric Wasserstrum, Washington U. in St. Louis '07) who wrote this article in showing how much Marc's contributions and presence have meant to his chapter.

Corrections and Additions

In Red Door Notes, the image run of the chapter house at Stevens Institute of Technology did not have a red door. It should have been noted that the new door was recently installed and the chapter had not painted it red when the photo was taken. Today there is a magnificent red door to welcome SigEps in Hoboken, New Jersey.

In the Bob Broeg: Sports Icon, SigEp Idol story, it was not mentioned that Brother Broeg received the Sigma Phi Epsilon Citation in 1989 at the St. Louis Conclave.

Red Door Notes

CHAPTER HOUSE PROFILES

The tradition of the red door on Sigma Phi Epsilon chapter houses began on the campus of Syracuse University, New York Alpha, in 1928. Today, nearly every Sigma Phi Epsilon chapter home has a red door to welcome SigEp Brothers. The original house and red door are pictured to the right. This building is now the Shutzker Center for International Services, and Sigma Phi Epsilon has another magnificent home for its red door.

Missouri-Rolla chapter house and remodeled first floor living room

Missouri Gamma— Missouri-Rolla

- With three floors plus basement, this 18,000 square foot chapter house sleeps 60 and sits on three-quarters of a city block. Recent improvements to the facility include a new chapter room in the basement and a remodeled living room on the first floor.
- The Alumni and Volunteer Corporation (AVC) is in the early planning stages for an extensive renovation to the interior and exterior of the chapter house. These will meet the needs of today's students, match the upgrades to other fraternities and student housing on campus, and put the facility on a path to become a Residential Learning Community (RLC).

Connecticut Delta—Yale

- Purchased in February of 2006, this property will sleep 12 Brothers when it opens in the fall semester. It is across the street from campus, giving SigEp the premier location of any fraternity at Yale University. Renovations are underway and include converting the third floor studio into bedrooms, painting and opening up common spaces on the lower floors. The chapter house has a large common room with a glass wall overlooking a courtyard.

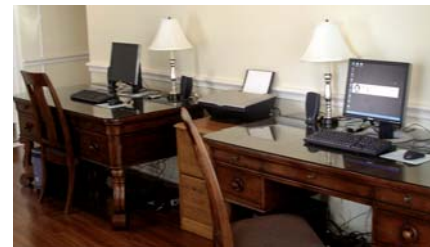

31 High Street, SigEp's newest home.

Southern Methodist University

Texas Upsilon RLC— Southern Methodist

- The chapter house was the former home of the university president. In 1985, SigEp moved into the property. In 2005, the university, in partnership with the local Alumni and Volunteer Corporation, completed a $1.3 million renovation, tripling the size of the facility. The renovation expanded the chapter room and added a formal library with desks and computers as well as a dining room lined with Greek columns. The facility now sleeps 22 Brothers and is the most visible property on campus.

SigEp Charters at North Carolina Charlotte

BY E. SCOTT THOMPSON, II,
Southern Mississippi '99

SigEp chartered at the University of North Carolina Charlotte in 1973, and the chapter enjoyed many prosperous years of operation until the mid 1990s. In 1997, low manpower and poor academic performance led to the closure of the chapter. Efforts began as early as 1999 to revive the chapter with several SigEps who transferred to UNC Charlotte from different schools. In the fall of 2000, members from the Headquarters staff began recruiting efforts on campus, and the chapter re-chartered on December 3, 2005, with 150 undergraduates, alumni, and guests in attendance. In March of 2006, the chapter capped a successful year by winning the UNC Charlotte Fraternity of the Year award.

The Chapter House

The chapter has a two story property as its home. Built in 1997, the 6,000 square foot property sleeps 18 and is located just off campus. The facility features 11 bedrooms, five bathrooms, two kitchens and two large dens for social events. During the chapter's dormancy, it was rented to another fraternity until the spring of 2003 when the chapter moved back in. Special thanks go to R. Allen Lovett, '76, for saving the chapter house. Since moving back, the chapter has been making constant improvements to the facility. The most recent projects include renovations of all the bathrooms and installing a new beach volleyball court.

The chapter will soon be replacing the red signage with beautiful bronze Greek letters.

Living the Balanced Man Ideal

For Sound Body, Brothers set health-related goals each semester and enroll in yoga, weight-lifting, swimming and nutrition courses offered by the University Gym. The chapter brings speakers from the Brocker Health Center to educate Brothers on nutrition. For Sound Mind, Brothers study George Washington's Rules on Civility and discuss the correlation between it and modern times. Brothers of North Carolina Nu either enroll in a fine arts course offered by the school or select an area of the arts to study independently for a semester. Members also attend dance and theatre events hosted by the school.

SigEp currently has three members on the Student Government Association, two members working as Residence Hall Advisors, and six members in the application process to become Orientation Counselors for the summer of 2006. SigEp also holds the Vice President, and Campus Involvement positions on the IFC Executive Board. In the recent past, SigEp held the President position of the Resident Student Association and positions on the Student Activity Fees Commission.

Volunteer Support

Several alumni and volunteers serve on the North Carolina Nu Alumni and Volunteer Corporation (AVC). Rick DeRhodes, '84, is the AVC President and works with Wally Neely, '94, Treasurer, Alex Mills, '82, Chapter Counselor, Judson Merrell, '03, Secretary and Bryan Hammond, '04, to mentor the undergraduates, communicate with other alumni, and manage the chapter property.

"Our charter was the first major accomplishment as a new chapter. I was overwhelmed with excitement and a sense of achievement. At the same time, I realized that our biggest step was yet to come; we need to exceed this accomplishment to prove we are worthy of our charter," said Brother Hammond.

About the Campus

UNC Charlotte is the fourth largest of the 16 institutions within the University of North Carolina system. It serves the people of North Carolina, with special emphasis on Charlotte, the nation's 35th largest city, and the surrounding 13-county metropolitan region, which includes 1.5 million people.

Enrollment approaches 21,000 students (45 percent men, 55 percent women), including 4,000 graduate students, and it is projected to increase annually through 2010, reaching 25,000. UNC Charlotte is the largest institution of higher education in the Charlotte region, the campus houses 74 buildings centered on a 1,000 acre campus. There are 14 fraternities and seven sororities, and the school plans to construct a Greek village to provide a more residential feel to the campus.

SigEp Mural in the Home of SigEp's First Red Doors, Syracuse

By E. SCOTT THOMPSON, II,
Southern Mississippi '99

©2006 DAVE FEILING

The SigEp mural covers two walls in the basement of what is now the Slutzker Center. Inset (above): A freshman visits the chapter house during rush.

Over the years undergraduates and alumni from across the country visit what is the former SigEp chapter house at 310 Walnut Place in Syracuse, New York. They visit to pay homage to the birthplace of the Red Doors. Those original Red Doors stood at that location from the late 1920s through the 1970s. In the late 1970s, the chapter house was sold to the university, and the Red Doors of the New York Alpha Chapter moved into a temporary home. In 1987, the chapter moved into its current location at 721 Comstock Avenue. However, the pilgrimages to the original chapter house, now the home of the Slutzker Center for International Services, did not cease.

The original chapter home at 310 Walnut Place

"In the world of knowledge the idea of the good appears last of all, and is seen only with effort."

—Socrates

When Brothers visit the Slutzker Center they receive a tour of the first floor and basement. It is in the basement where an intriguing mural is painted on the walls depicting a young man coming to college, participating in fraternity recruitment, joining SigEp, enjoying intramurals, socials, etc., and then graduating. One of the scenes features the rivalry between Colgate University and Syracuse University. Longtime Alumni and Volunteer Corporation President Jack Cornell, '53, identified one of the artists as Ed Shackleton, '50. "Ed was an architecture student and he and his roommates painted the mural in early 1950," he said. He did not know the other artists, and Ed passed away a few years ago.

Today the basement serves as storage, and the Slutzker Center recognizes the heritage of the mural and has not painted over it. However, there are no formal policies in place to preserve this artwork, and SigEp is grateful that it continues to exist. Dr. Michael B. Smithee, former Associate Director of the Slutzker Center said, "The fact that Brothers over the years still tour the old fraternity house is the main reason why it has not been painted over." Time is taking its toll on the work, and an effort to preserve this piece of SigEp history should be undertaken. First we need help in tracking down the full story behind this mural. Email journal@sigep.net or write to The Journal, P.O. Box 1901, Richmond, Virginia 23281-1901, if you know the other artists, and let us recognize the efforts of these Brothers by preserving their work of art.

A look at SigEp's Two Decades of Growth

BY CRAIG D. TEMPLETON,
Kansas '81, Executive Director

Fraternity membership in the U.S. has been in a 20-year slide—down an alarming 35 percent in the last decade. Sigma Phi Epsilon has been buffered, but not immune. With 14,423 students on campus today, SigEp is actually up a razor thin 1.5 percent since 1986.

Of greater concern is that our high water mark for recruitment was the 1989-1990 school year with 7,500 new members. Even though more men joined SigEp than any other fraternity every year through 2005, we were riding the top of a declining market—1993 down to 7,000; 1996, 6,250; 1999, 5,500.

The addition of 12 chapters since 1986 and improved retention offset declining recruitment. We have 258 chapters today, averaging 56 members, down four from 1986.

So what happened?

Experts point to demographic and societal changes, coupled with influence from raising the drinking age, chipping away fraternity popularity.

Regaining

We are working on a simple equation for recovery: recruit the right men, provide a healthy environment to build Sound Mind and Sound Body, and aid the eternal pursuit of education.

This year, 5,701 men joined SigEp, posting an 3.7 percent recovery from 1999. The Chronicle of Higher Education reports a 10 percent increase in overall enrollment since 1999 (8.77 million/9.65 million).

Disrupting the Academic Mission

The University of Colorado became so fed up with incorrigible “frats” that last year it tried to ban freshmen from joining fraternities “in order to lessen the disruption of the University’s academic functions and to promote the health, safety and well-being of freshmen.”

“Disruption?” With a series of alcohol deaths and evidence that freshman grades suffer in fraternities, a whole year of fraternity membership would be wiped out by a university unable to correct bad culture.

Helping freshmen acclimate to college, better grades, maintaining Sound Mind and Sound Body—the very purpose and value of fraternity membership—were named as reasons to wipe them out.

We responded with the new North-American Interfraternity Conference (NIC) standards to resolve CU’s woes. CU wasn’t buying and withdrew its recognition of fraternities. Sororities agreed to the recruiting deferral, but, after membership plummeted, are reconsidering.

The NIC standards are right, but CU fraternities must radically change recruiting to get the right men. The demise of CU Greeks will continue unabated as long as fraternities continue living down to the reputation of drinking clubs, fighting over the dwindling number of men who are only thirsty for beer and raucous parties.

That worked in 1980, when 79.5 percent of incoming freshmen expected to drink “occasionally” or “frequently,” but, in 2005, the children of the soccer moms showed up on campus with only 49 percent expecting to drink. They are more serious about school.

Maybe when we start recruiting selectively to our standards, the residence halls will corner the market on alcohol-drenched freshmen who drink themselves to death while we regain the high road with students serious about college.

The college fraternity must be so relevant to a freshman’s success that universities plead with us to recruit more and earlier. Universities should be helping fraternities reach high school seniors to make sure they get it right from the start and add assurance that applicants will accept admissions.

Perhaps CU misses the point that fraternity men complete their degrees at a much higher rate than non-Greeks.

SigEp is gaining notoriety for having a third more students on campus than the next largest fraternities (Pi Kappa Alpha and Kappa Sigma), and the highest GPA of all fraternities and the lowest insurance claims.

The University of Massachusetts is trying to involve alumni to improve its fraternities. The Vice Chancellor wondered aloud why only SigEp alumni responded. The difference seemed to be the undergraduates—we are recruiting a different crowd. The others still ply those who sign up for “rush” with alcohol and wonder why they end up with drunks who couldn’t care less about alumni mentors, yet wonder why alumni never help.

Frat Slums to SigEp RLCs

Fraternities on many campuses have become slums. While universities pumped hundreds of millions of dollars into state-of-the-art residential facilities, fraternity real estate crumbled in disrepair, abuse and obsolescence.

At SigEp, with your contributions to the Educational Foundation, we launched a movement to demolish frat houses with Residential Learning Communities (RLCs), where intellectual curiosity and academic pursuits are encouraged with faculty interaction. Oh, and like Yale University's residential colleges, where College Masters (professors) are required to budget socials—including alcohol—SigEp RLCs throw in a serious measure of social. Unlike frat houses though, RLCs balance priorities.

The SigEp National Housing Corporation also infused $15 million in new lending capacity to add to its own $7 million in loan funds and began fund raising for housing. Seventeen chapters have embarked on more than $17 million in fund raising, with $11.35 million already committed. SigEp AVCs have tapped into almost $39 million for real estate in four years.

We are building facilities to rival the best any campus has to offer.

The Fraternity Edge

President Jerry Farley, at Washburn University in Topeka, Kansas, was fascinated to learn of SigEp's Residential Learning Communities. Washburn had spent millions building university residential colleges, only to be disappointed they weren't retaining residents as hoped. They struggle to build the bonds that engage students.

Last month Washburn committed $9 million to build a Greek Village with Kansas Delta's RLC by SigEp as a centerpiece.

At the University of Tennessee, residence halls were built to accommodate the enrollment boom. They are beautiful, fully wireless and all suites—private baths, microwaves, dorm refrigerators—everything today's college student could want. University officials were dismayed to find that student retention collapsed with constant turnover. Meanwhile, students in old residence halls with central bathrooms and dining halls are staying all four years and don't want to leave.

Fraternities go one better with a bond of brotherhood. Our Tennessee Alpha alumni are raising $5 million dollars to replace the residence for their 109-man chapter.

Duke Professor Reynolds Price, with a 55-year perspective at Duke, questioned the intellectual and spiritual health of his campus in an editorial, "Does Duke University provide students with an environment that encourages an invigorating immersion in the life of ideas, the exploration of humane duties in private and public life, and the maturing of human relationships of a rewarding kind?

"Until students have a residential base from which to pursue their studies and their friendships with contemporaries and teachers, they can hardly be expected to function at their best," contends Price. "Our dormitories, alas, were built as warehousing with no thought for intellectual or personal intimacy. Most of our dining halls are hostile to relaxed eating and conversation."

Robert J. O'Hara, Dudley House tutor at Harvard and later founder of Cornelia Strong Residential College at UNC—Greensboro, on collegiateway.org, says critics of higher education are missing their target. "The real crisis in higher education today doesn't have to do with the curriculum; it has to do with the poverty of student life. Endlessly re-scrambled dormitories, social isolation, alcohol abuse and vandalism, institutionally promoted segregation and a loss of connection between the classroom and student life outside the classroom—all these troubles have for a generation plagued institutions that advertise themselves as caring and 'student centered.'"

Across the nation, the Balanced Man Ideals are combating these trends. We are recruiting and producing students who crave mentoring, who graduate and contribute far more back to their alma maters (nourishing mothers) and who want to excel in living their best lives.

No one else on campus can say that, because you can't be a frat boy in a frat house or a warehoused student in a dorm and live your best life.

"It was Bill's idea to get the organization larger....He put us on a road that we've never gotten off."

— Frank J. Ruck, Michigan '46,

Former Grand Secretary Bill Hindman Passes

As of press time, The Journal learned of the passing of former Grand Secretary Bill Hindman, Pennsylvania '39. He was 88 years old. Brother Hindman was a descendant of Thomas Stone, whose signature is on the Declaration of Independence. He is survived by a niece, Carol Stone Brown.

In 1944, at the age of 26, Brother Hindman assumed the role of Grand Secretary of our young Fraternity. Under his direction, Sigma Phi Epsilon added 51 chapters to its rolls, our greatest expansion to date. He capitalized on the influx of G.I.s attending college by opening chapters on campuses with booming enrollment. The strategy paid off. Sigma Phi Epsilon grew from 70 chapters to 134, establishing us as a large national Fraternity. After leaving the staff in 1957, the position of Grand Secretary was restructured and became the position of Executive Director.

In 1997 Past Grand President and Order of the Golden Heart recipient Frank J. Ruck, Michigan '46, reminiscing about his time working under Brother Hindman as Assistant Grand Secretary, said, "It was Bill's idea to get the organization larger... In order to be powerful and successful, size was a prerequisite. He put us on a road that we've never gotten off."

Look for a more detailed story on Brother Hindman in the next issue of The Journal.

Record 60 Chapters in the Phi Beta Kappa Wheelhouse!

At the time of printing, 234 chapters reported grades for the fall 2005 semester and 49 chapters reported for the spring 2006. Look for a more complete list for the spring 2006 in the next issue of The Journal. Congratulations to our chapters with a 3.15 GPA or higher. Our Fraternity is moving toward a cumulative 3.15 GPA.

Being the Best: BMP APPEARS IN MASS MEDIA, EDGE REACHES 2,007 NEW MEMBERS

This year the Balanced Man Program made news across the country on the Today Show, Good Morning America and in the pages of Time magazine. The Balanced Man Program provides a structure to build a Sound Mind in a Sound Body. It is also a non-pledging program which provides member development throughout the undergraduate experience. Currently, there are 195 chapters (76 percent) operating the Balanced Man Program. Our Strategic Plan calls for 90 percent by 2011.

Through the generosity of the Sigma Phi Epsilon Educational Foundation, more than $1.4 million was invested into programming for the Leadership Continuum, SigEp's series of leadership programs—EDGE, Carlson Leadership Academy, Conclave, Ruck Leadership Institute, and Tragos Quest to Greece. As a result, more than 5,000 SigEps took part in the leadership opportunities of the Fraternity.

EDGE, SigEp's program on responsible decision-making and living a balanced life, reached 2,007 first-year members. Through EDGE, participants are challenged to examine their lives and find their paths toward building a Sound Mind and Sound Body. SigEp helps participants set goals and then shows them how the Fraternity can help them achieve those goals. EDGE educates our Brothers on pitfalls they will be faced with during their college years so they can make decisions that align with their goals.

The Carlson Leadership Academy journeyed to nine cities in 2006, with 2,034 participants from the undergraduate and alumni ranks. At the Academy, participants learned to set and achieve lofty goals as reflected in the theme "Think Big!" Chapter officers received hands-on training in fraternity management from notable alumni and volunteers, while local volunteers discussed fundamental practices for volunteer boards that support our chapters.

In August, over 1,300 brothers descended upon Nashville, Tennessee, for the 49th Grand Chapter Conclave. At this spectacular event, the Grand Chapter voted to raise the minimum academic standard for membership and cement our place as a partner in higher education. Conclave is the ultimate SigEp experience.

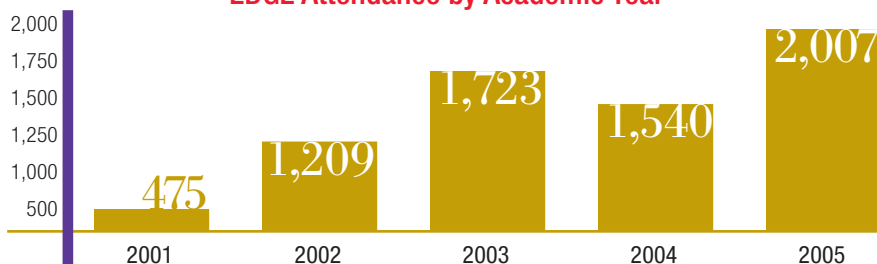

SigEp's "Top Gun" returns to Williamsburg, Virginia, with the eighth annual Ruck Leadership Institute. Focused on teaching the few to impact the many, 120 exceptional undergraduates will build a vision for their future and develop the tools of leadership to be outstanding members of SigEp and society.

In 2006, 17 undergraduates participated on the Tragos Quest to Greece, where they learned about the birthplace of Sound Mind and Sound Body. They asked critical questions of themselves and their place in the world within the culture that originated Western Civilization.

Volunteers: STANDING COMMITTEE ON VOLUNTEERS CREATED

SigEp depends upon volunteers to be good stewards of the local chapter. Without those Brothers, parents, faculty and, in some cases, spouses, our chapters would not be successful. Well-trained and dedicated volunteers play an instrumental role in assuring our chapters win in recruitment by recruiting year-round, retaining members through four-year continuous development programs, and providing the financial wherewithal to fund SigEp's dreams.

Alumni & Volunteer Involvement

Nearly 1,200 men and women volunteer their time and talent to improve the SigEp experience. The Fraternity set specific benchmarks to achieve in 2005-2006:

- 90 percent of chapters have a Chapter Counselor. To date, 93 percent do.
- 50 percent of chapters represented by a volunteer at the Carlson Leadership Academy. This year, 54 percent of local Alumni and Volunteer Corporations were represented.

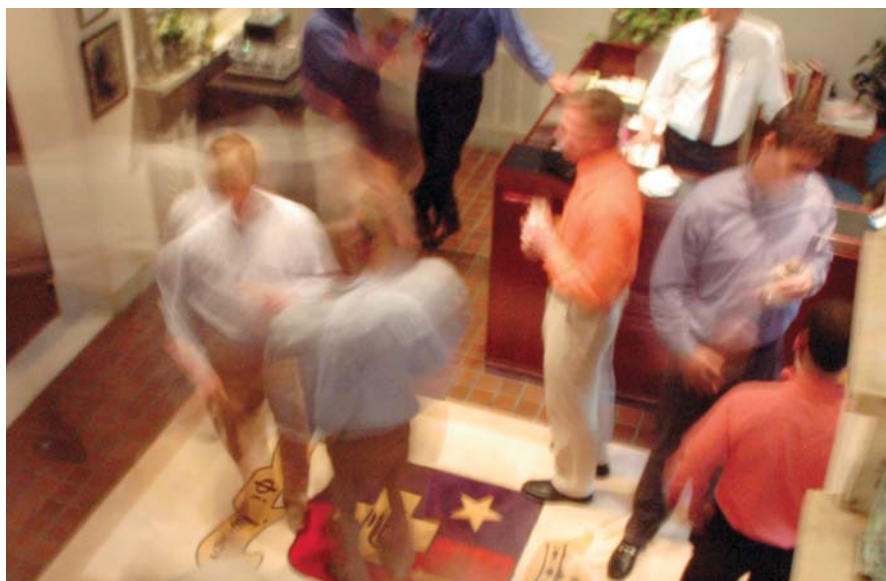

In addition, the Fraternity is working to ensure each chapter has an engaged President and Treasurer of the Alumni and Volunteer Corporation and an active Chapter Counselor. At this time, 80 percent of Alumni and Volunteer Corporations meet this minimum. We can and will do better.

Alumni and Volunteer Corporations can work with their District Governor and Regional Director to identify potential volunteers, recruit them through one-on-one relationship building, and assure new volunteers are provided immediate training along with tasks to complete.

Faculty Engagement

Our future will be defined by our ability to meet the changing needs of higher education. More and more, we find that successful chapters are, in part, defined by the relationship they share with members of the university faculty and administration. Rather than blame them for the poor reputation of Greek life, our best chapters actively seek faculty mentors to provide coaching on academic success, opportunities for enlightened discussions exploring Sound Mind and Sound Body, and unique programming that brings the chapter and the campus community closer together. Today, 33 Faculty Fellows support Residential Learning Community initiatives. In addition, 152 chapters have a Faculty Advisor who aids in academic goal setting and provides access to critical on-campus resources.

Many of the successes of this Fraternity can be traced back to the efforts of a volunteer. Your impact upon our Fraternity is noticed and appreciated. Thank you for supporting our undergraduate brothers.

Strong Staff: PARTNERING WITH U. OF RICHMOND'S ROBINS SCHOOL OF BUSINESS TO AUGMENT REGIONAL DIRECTOR TRAINING

When the National Board of Directors adopted the Second Century Strategic Plan in 2001, it identified the strength of the Headquarters staff as one of the five keys to SigEp's top position on the American college campus. This strength would be assured with educational opportunities and lengthening the average tenure of the professional staff.

The two senior leaders in the Headquarters are completing their sixth year—Director of Operations Christopher T. Minnis, Truman State '00 and Director of Communications E. Scott Thompson, II, Southern Mississippi '99. Director of Resource Development Ryan P. Jacobsen, U. of San Diego '00, left the staff in June after six years of dedicated service. Director of Real Estate John D. Weir, Purdue '01, is completing his fifth year on staff. With the support of the Sigma Phi Epsilon Educational Foundation, Brother Jacobsen completed his Master's in Leadership at Georgetown University this year, and Brother Minnis is currently in the Executive MBA program at the University of Richmond Robins School of Business. Members of the staff can opt to take deferred assistance commensurate with the time they remain on the staff to enter full-time graduate programs when they leave the Headquarters staff.

Likely the greatest value of the Headquarters staff experience, however, is the career experience and exposure it provides by affording demanding opportunities to work and interact with business and education leaders across America.

McCaw, Appalachian State '03; Adam W. Seiber, Murray State '03; Jan R. Brammer; Douglas F. McRaney; and Ryan P. Blanck, Western Michigan '02. Seated (L-R): John D. Weir, Purdue '01; Melia B. Hoyle; David J. Graziano, St. John's '03; Julie W. Ross; Susan L. Williams; Kathy E. Johnston; and Christopher T. Minnis, Truman State '00.

Regional Directors form the front line of the Fraternity's recruitment and operational support services to Alumni and Volunteer Corporations and undergraduate chapters. There are very few first jobs that provide the level of experience and opportunity the Regional Director position does.

It is a demanding job that knows no regular business hours and requires endless energy and confidence. RDs are found working with university administrators and alumni volunteers by day and chapter student leaders and more alumni volunteers by night. They are involved in real estate property management, board governance, educational and leadership program development and delivery, recruitment and sales, crisis management and conflict resolution, personnel and human resources and legal and risk management—and it always ranks among the single most rewarding and enriching experiences in a person's life.

Regional Directors come from varied undergraduate chapter experiences, having held chapter or campus leadership positions. Most have been involved with the Fraternity's Leadership Continuum as participants or facilitators for sessions of EDGE, Carlson Leadership Academies, Ruck Leadership Institute and Tragos Quest to Greece.

The Regional Director experience starts with an eight-week, intense, interactive training program. Training focuses on teaching advanced units of fraternity operations while incorporating sessions on personal and professional skills. The curriculum is delivered by staff and alumni volunteers whose fraternity experience or professional careers provide particular value. In 2006, SigEp Headquarters will partner with the University of Richmond Robins School of Business to incorporate graduate study course work to augment the curriculum.

Year-round recruitment and summer recruitment, in particular, are pushing the demand for Headquarters support services to bridge the summers. Second-year Regional Directors work through the summer months, primarily with chapters in recruitment.

Growth: FRATERNITY LAUNCHES EXECUTIVE RECRUITMENT RETREAT

During the 2005-2006

academic year, SigEp started chapters at Washington State University, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Elon University, Washington & Lee University and Indiana University. Three chapters closed this year at the University of New Hampshire, James Madison University and the University of Idaho. To date, SigEp has 258 chapters. In addition to opening chapters, SigEp provided resources to select chapters at Arizona State University, University of New Mexico, Oklahoma State University and Vanderbilt University.

SigEp provided aggressive recruitment training at Conclave and the Carlson Leadership Academies. In January of 2006, SigEp launched a new program called the Executive Recruitment Retreat designed to help select chapters create and execute a plan of year-round recruitment. In 2006, SigEp recruited 5,701 new members, which was down from last year's 5,714 performance. Plans are underway for SigEp to recruit 5,900 new members in 2007.

Although new member recruitment is the most important leading growth indicator on the national scale, we must not discount the importance of member retention to our total organizational growth. With our emphasis on building a Sound Mind and Sound Body, and the increased movement to partner with universities in the SigEp Residential Learning Community, SigEp maintains the largest average chapter size in the fraternity world at 56 men.

We aim to stretch our lead in the years to come by continuing to implement these ideals, programs and partnerships while adding new and innovative ways for our chapters to find new members, recruit, retain and grow their chapters to be leaders on campuses across America.

Housing: RLCs OPEN AT K-STATE, NORTH TEXAS; MISSOURI STATE BUILDS NEW FACILITY, YALE ACQUIRES HOME

The 2005-2006 academic school year has been one of the most productive in the history of the National Housing Corporation (NHC)—by moving more men into new or renovated facilities.

Just four years ago, an AVC investing $30,000 into its property was considered a “major” improvement. Today, the term “major” is defined with seven figures rather than five.

The reason the NHC made such big strides in 2005-2006 is three-fold:

- The hard work and dedication of our eight volunteer Trustees. Without their leadership and guidance, we would not be where we are today.
- The partnership between the Fraternity and the NHC with the Alumni Communications Program. This program is strategically preparing AVCs for capital campaigns that will drive major facility renovations.
- The partnership between the Educational Foundation and the NHC with the Residential Learning Community (RLC). The RLC is changing the way that fraternity houses are viewed and puts us in line with what the most visionary colleges and universities are embracing, living-learning environments.

“Until students have a residential base from which to pursue their studies and their friendships with contemporaries and teachers, they can hardly be expected to function at their best.”

— Duke Professor Reynolds Price

Texas Beta RLC at the University of North Texas

So, what specifically has happened this year?

SigEp at Kansas State University opened its doors on a newly renovated chapter house. The facility was completely renovated with a turn-key price tag of $3.0 million. Fund raising to date totals $2.1 million and climbing.

SigEp at the University of North Texas cut the ribbon on its brand new Residential Learning Community. The cost of this turn-key, 12,000 square foot property was $1 million. Fund raising to date totals $809,100.

SigEp at Southern Methodist University moved into its newly renovated Residential Learning Community. The facility is owned by the university, and, thanks to a partnership between the NHC and Southern Methodist University, SigEp delivered a completely renovated facility to our chapter.

SigEp at Stevens Institute of Technology moved into its newly renovated chapter houses.

Oregon State University SigEps moved into their newly renovated chapter house.

The University of Southern California chapter completed the third and final phase of its facility renovation.

University of Colorado members are now eating meals together as a chapter thanks to a $200,000 turn-key commercial kitchen installation.

Missouri State University SigEps moved into a brand new facility thanks to the hard work and dedication of its AVC. The AVC negotiated a project with a private developer.

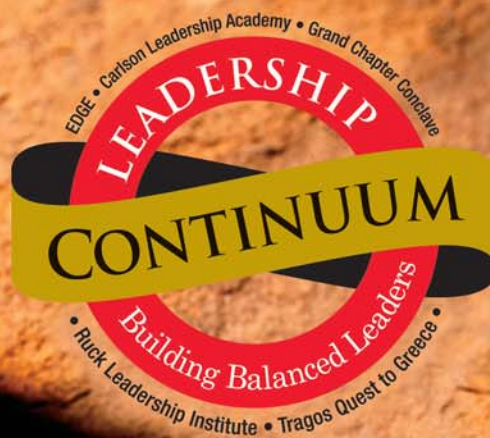

Local volunteers in New Haven, Connecticut, were successful at purchasing a property for our recently chartered chapter at Yale University. As of August 1, 2006, the property will be the new chapter house.

SigEp Email: Amazing

Each day I, like all of us, receive tons of emails. I am always amazed by the hundreds of people who seem to know what I need. Fortunately, buried in those countless offers of things I don't need (well, OK maybe some) are dozens of "thank you" emails from SigEps across the country who have just returned from Greece, attended the Ruck Leadership Institute, received a scholarship, opened the doors to their new chapter house, learned what a real fraternity is at Edge, or honed their leadership skills at the Carlson Leadership Academies.

All of those thank you notes are really for you...and the $1.5 million that your Foundation was able to grant this year to SigEp Educational and Leadership programs that make a difference.

These programs, what we refer to as the Leadership Continuum, set SigEp apart from all other fraternities. No wonder they all tell us we have cutting edge programs. They're right. We do. Other leading initiatives include Residential Learning Communities, Resident Scholars, Faculty Fellows, and the Balanced Man Program. All of this is because of you: not only the dollars you donate, but also the time you share.

Maintaining that cutting edge is our primary focus. That edge helps us in recruiting outstanding new members. It helps us assure our donors that SigEp is a worthy recipient of your contributions. And it sets us apart when a University President asks us (yes, that's right) asks us to open a new SigEp chapter on their campus.

To those of you who are part of that cutting edge, thank you.

To those of you who are not, your Fraternity needs you.

Yes, $1.5 million sounds like a lot.

Not, however, when you realize that we have 15,000 outstanding men on campus.

Not when you realize that many universities now count on us as their partner in higher education. Not when we all agree that our job has just begun.

Your help is needed to finish the job.

Today, your Foundation is ready to accept your assistance in a variety of ways:

- You can donate specifically to your chapter's scholarship or leadership funds
- You can donate to existing national scholarships or leadership programs
- You can establish your own scholarship fund
- You can donate to our general fund, allowing the Trustees to designate funds to growing programs

Whatever you decide, please know that your gift will benefit your Brothers and your Fraternity for many years to come.

It will establish your Legacy as a Brother.

And cement SigEp's partnership with higher education.

In September, the Board of Governors (one of our annual donor groups) will convene for a great weekend in Richmond, reception at Z House, an update on the Fraternity, and a chance to renew and make friendships.

I hope you all can join us.

Email me and I'll send along the details. And if you don't mind, I'll probably send along one of those thank you emails that really belong to you.

They make my heart sing. Yours will too.

New Trustee VP

Congratulations are in order for Jay Hurt, recently elected to the new post of VP of Programming for the Educational Foundation. In this new position, Jay will oversee the Foundation's grant and scholarship approval process as well as assist the Fraternity in monitoring the effectiveness and success of existing programs.

Jay joins Foundation officers, Garry Kief, President, Don Hudler, VP Fundraising, Jim Clayton, Treasurer, and Jay Harness, Secretary.

The Doud–Clayton Award

A Sigma Phi Epsilon Educational Foundation scholarship to recognize “Brothers helping Brothers”

A new and innovative endowment has been established in the Sigma Phi Epsilon Educational Foundation to recognize and encourage the special relationship Sigma Phi Epsilon makes possible between its Brothers.

The endowment will provide $10,000 in undergraduate scholarships each year to SigEp Brothers who, in their personal relationship and interaction with another SigEp Brother, exemplify the relationship two SigEp Brothers, Wally Doud and Jim Clayton, developed 13 years ago.

Nominations are now being accepted for the inaugural recipient who will be named this fall.

Every Brother and friend of Sigma Phi Epsilon is encouraged to search out worthy Brother to Brother relationships that exemplify the special bond and opportunities our Fraternity makes possible.

Your nomination can be made by simply writing a letter to the Foundation Board of Trustees c/o Executive Director Doug Scheibe, at Zollinger House, 310 South Boulevard, Richmond, Virginia 23220, or you can visit the Foundation website at www.sigep.org/foundation, and go to the news section for the Doud/Clayton Award and complete a nomination form online.

This new endowment was established with a $200,000 cash gift from James L. Clayton, Tennessee '57, in appreciation of Brother Wallace C. Doud, Wisconsin '48.

Brothers Jim Clayton and Joe Clayton, Tennessee '57, founded the Clayton Manufactured Home and Auto Companies in 1956 while living in the Tennessee Alpha Chapter house. Jim concentrated on the manufactured home company, and it grew as a privately held company until 1983 when he took it public as Clayton Homes on the New York Stock Exchange. Under Jim's stewardship the company became the recognized leader in the manufactured housing industry with annual sales approaching $2 billion.

Clayton Homes faced the usual business pressures that come with growth and with being a public company. Those who know Jim Clayton know his entrepreneurial spirit that is so integral to the success of Clayton Homes. But those who have had experience with entrepreneurial companies know that making the transition to a public company, with shareholders and a board of directors including outside directors, poses a real challenge to a visionary founder.

Clayton Homes was a “Forbes 200 Best Managed Company” in 1993. Jim had recruited an exemplary independent board of directors. According to Jim, after a routine Tennessee Sales Tax Audit uncovered an immaterial underpayment in a small business unit, one of the directors seized an opportunity to hire an independent counsel. Jim was able to persuade the board to fire the independent counsel, which resulted in two directors resigning, but not before publishing a vague list of serious allegations which was picked up on the front page of the Wall Street Journal.

Faced with recruiting qualified replacement directors was a daunting task. Jim wondered what qualified director candidate would consider joining a board in this environment.

Enter SigEp Past Grand President and Order of the Golden Heart recipient Wally Doud.

Brother Clayton—never to be underestimated in facing a challenge—called Brother Doud, a retired Corporate Officer and Vice President for Commercial and Industry Relations of the IBM Corporation, who was then serving as a member of the Board of Directors of Motorola Corporation, and asked for his help.

Jim Clayton and Wally Doud had known each other from attending SigEp Conclaves together and serving on the Sigma Phi Epsilon Educational Foundation Board of Directors for several years.

Brother Doud was briefed on the situation with Clayton Homes and the challenges Jim and the Board of Directors were facing, and, at Jim's request, agreed to join the Clayton Homes Board of Directors. Wally's experience with public companies, his credibility, and his counsel helped the company through this difficult period, and the rest is history.

Brother Doud served several years on the board of Clayton Homes as the company continued its 30-year record of 25 percent annual growth, rising to the pinnacle of its industry. Jim lauded Wally in his 2003 autobiography, First A Dream, which caught the eye of Warren Buffett, who purchased Clayton Homes as a subsidiary of Berkshire Hathaway.

Partnering on the development of a succession plan the two SigEp Brothers recruited other world class directors and soon named Kevin T. Clayton, the founder's son, as President, COO, and CEO apparent. As their succession plan suggested, in 1999, Brother Clayton handed off the CEO role to Kevin, but remained as Chairman until the Berkshire acquisition. Kevin currently continues his successful career as CEO of Clayton Homes, Inc., the lauded Warren Buffett company.

The scholarship recipients, to be selected by the Sigma Phi Epsilon Educational Foundation Board of Trustees, will be undergraduate Brothers who epitomize the “Brothers helping Brothers” spirit exemplified by Brother Doud as he supported Brother Clayton.

The first Doud—Clayton “Brothers helping Brothers” Awards will be announced in The Journal this fall, with the recipients recognized at the 2007 Carlson Leadership Academies.

Wally's reactions to the Clayton gift in his honor:

What was your reaction when you first learned that Jim had made this gift to the Foundation in your honor?

“I was surprised and flattered that Jim put my contribution to Clayton Homes in this fraternal perspective. His generous gift to the Foundation to honor that contribution is a testament to how important the Sigma Phi Epsilon Educational Foundation is to both of us.”

How do you see this Brothers Helping Brothers award relating to the SigEp experience?

“It is a definite plus in reminding SigEps that they are Brothers for Life and that when they leave college Brotherhood continues in a variety of ways. Many times the interaction you have as an alumnus with Brothers of other chapters provides your most rewarding fraternal relationships.”

While the Honor of Philias recognizes acts of Brotherly Love that impact the community and is not necessarily SigEp related, this award will recognize relationships where a Brother helps a Brother. How would you explain its purpose in a more personal way?

“I think it is really easy to understand if you recall our ritual, Should a Brother fall by the wayside.”

Wally and Jean Doud

Wallace C. Doud, Wisconsin '48

Brother Doud was recognized for his career achievement in 1971 with the awarding of the Sigma Phi Epsilon Citation. This first involvement with the Fraternity since graduation reignited his interest and he has been active for the 35 years since.

He served on the Sigma Phi Epsilon National Board of Directors from 1975 to 1983, was elected Grand Treasurer in 1983 and Grand President in 1985. In 1987, he was elected a trustee of the Sigma Phi Epsilon Educational Foundation, a position he still holds. During the Campaign for the Heart, from 1990-1993, he was an important part of its success in raising $7 million for scholarship and leadership endowments. Wally has established three endowments in the Sigma Phi Epsilon Educational Foundation and one scholarship endowment for his chapter at Wisconsin through the University of Wisconsin Foundation. He is a member of the Sigma Senate, the Sigma Phi Epsilon Educational Foundation's highest level giving club.

Brother Doud retired from IBM as a corporate officer and has served on the Board of Directors of Motorola Corporation and Clayton Homes. Wally and his wife Jean are avid golfers who maintain their home in Vero Beach, Florida, and spend their summers at a home in Rockport, Maine.

James L. Clayton, Tennessee '57

Brother Clayton, like Brother Doud, has been recognized with Sigma Phi Epsilon's highest honor for career achievement, the Sigma Phi Epsilon Citation.

As Jim recounts in his autobiography, First A Dream, his relationship with Sigma Phi Epsilon is unique. He and his brother Joe founded Clayton Manufactured Home and Auto Companies in 1956, while living in the SigEp house at the University of Tennessee. In 1981, Joe took the auto business and Jim took Clayton Homes. Jim's entrepreneurial spirit created the industry leader, a Forbes 200 Best Managed Company, and landed Jim on the Forbes 400 list of wealthiest Americans.

Following his hand off of the Clayton Homes CEO responsibilities to his son Kevin, Jim moved on to the banking industry. He established a successful Tennessee bank which was acquired by BB&T. Not one to rest, Jim has now established a new bank which is on an accelerated growth curve.

Jim has remained loyal to his Tennessee Alpha Chapter, serving on its alumni board and its scholarship foundation. The spring 2005 Sigma Phi Epsilon Journal profiled Jim and his intern program for Tennessee Alpha SigEps, which has nurtured dozens of undergraduates into exceptional careers.

In 1989, Jim was elected a trustee of the Sigma Phi Epsilon Educational Foundation and has served as its treasurer since 1993. During the Foundation's Campaign for the Heart, he worked closely with the campaign leadership and established the Clayton Endowment. He is member of the Sigma Senate, the Foundation's highest level giving club.

Jim is a passionate aviator and flies his private jet. Jim and his wife Kay maintain their home in Knoxville, Tennessee, and have homes in Boca Raton, Florida, and Colorado.

Honor Roll of Giving

The Honor Roll of Giving recognizes the many generous alumni and friends who contributed in 2005 to programs of the Educational Foundation. Below and on the next page are the members of our top six cumulative giving clubs. These are alumni and friends who have contributed gifts over the years which reach the cumulative level indicated. These clubs have additional members but this list reports only those members who made a contribution to the Educational Foundation in 2005.

TCU's Formula for BMS Success

First, the numbers, in 16 months the James H. Wood Balanced Man Scholarship (BMS) went from one contributor to 134, and the fund grew $12,500. In 2005, one chapter had the most contributors to the Educational Foundation (see page 38), 51 more than the next chapter. This must be a large state school with more than 80 years of uninterrupted history and scores of alumni, right? No, it isn't. The Texas Gamma Chapter at Texas Christian University, founded in 1955 as the first fraternity on campus, had a 19-year period of dormancy and has 627 lifetime members. So how did this chapter, with an unlikely profile, achieve such impressive results, the best in all of SigEp in 2005?

It all began in March of 2004 when District Governor Daniel McVeigh, Texas Wesleyan '90, arranged for a session in Dallas on how to utilize the Educational Foundation. Bill Patten, '73, attended and learned that the Foundation administers scholarship funds for EVERY chapter in Sigma Phi Epsilon. He learned about trust agreements where an AVC can restrict the scholarship to the BMS, ensuring that any money given to this fund only goes toward the agreed-upon scholarship. He learned of chapters with multiple funds within the Educational Foundation. He also learned that the Educational Foundation will manage the funds and administrative logistics of the account for a minimal one percent fee. Brother Patten saw possibilities for his chapter, and undertook an ever-evolving project in growing the BMS for his chapter.

Brother Patten established a culture of giving within the alumni and undergraduates. He and other alumni cleaned up the chapter's database of names and addresses so communications from the chapter and AVC would reach their intended audience. They utilized an alumni email list-serve to update them on the progress of the chapter and even issued a friendly challenge to spur giving. He recognized the contributions and celebrated the wins along the way. There is a buzz on campus about the James H. Wood BMS. The chapter hosts a top-notch BMS banquet each fall. The Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs attends, as well as parents and faculty. Alumni who contribute are invited to speak. The chapter recognizes incoming freshmen who exemplify Sound Mind and Sound Body. All of these approaches are part of a comprehensive plan to see more than 240 contributors annually and to raise the fund to nearly $50,000 by 2009.

Bio on Clayton Simons

Taken from the 2005 James H. Wood Balanced Man Scholarship Banquet

"This year's Jim Wood Balanced Man Scholarship in the amount of $1,000 goes to a young man who exemplifies balance in his day-to-day life. He graduated high school with a 4.0 GPA, and was a member of the varsity baseball, football, and track teams. He made the varsity football and baseball teams as a sophomore. He made All-District Academic for football his junior year. Additionally, he has been named 'most respected' and 'most athletic' by his peers. He was named an elder to his Church committee and he taught Sunday School for third through fifth graders. He founded his own sports camp for kids, where he has had three successful summers of camps. He was nominated into homecoming court his sophomore year. The recipient logged many community service hours volunteering at the San Antonio Metropolitan Ministry, Salvation Army, Boysville, Bexar County Food Pantry, nursing homes, and doing yard work for the elderly. He recently finished his first triathlon this past July. It is my honor to recognize with a $1,000 scholarship, Clayton Simons as this year's Jim Wood Balanced Man Scholarship recipient."

Time Line

March, '04: Educational Foundation seminar coordinated by District Governor Daniel McVeigh. Brother Patten works on updating Texas Gamma mailing list in preparation for developing a campaign to raise scholarship fund contributions.

August, '04: Jace Thompson, '08, wins the inaugural James H. Wood BMS.

October, '04: Fourteen alumni make contributions totaling $1,150.

November, '04: Twelve more contributions for $780 arrive from alumni and undergraduates. A mailer is sent to all alumni and parents of all undergraduates describing the James H. Wood BMS fund.

December, '04: Twelve more contributions arrive, growing the fund by another $630. Brother Patten addresses the chapter with a review of fund raising activities. Year-end contributions are received from 23 more alumni and undergraduates. The fund has grown to $5,455.

August, '05: Clayton Simons wins the James H. Wood BMS. Over 150 people attend the award ceremony, including 30 finalists. The finalists are acknowledged with their credentials in the presence of parents, alumni, faculty, and the Vice Chancellor of Student Affairs.

August, '05: Prior to the start of formal recruitment, optimism on results is shared on the alumni list-serve. Patten challenges the alumni, agreeing to contribute $10 for each recruit. Recruitment concludes with 47 new members, including three James H. Wood BMS recipients. Several alums are now bound to send contributions of $470.

September, '05: Maurine Wood, who attended the recent award ceremony, has again offered her financial support, another $500.

October, '05: Ten contributions totaling $1,280 arrive. The fund grows to $7,235.

November, '05: Brother Thompson begins to round up undergrad contributions. He receives donations from 40 undergraduates.

December, '05: A December blitz dramatically increases the number of contributors.

March, '06: Planning for 2006 is completed. Clayton Simons, '09, James H. Wood BMS Chair for 2006, has scheduled the James H. Wood Balanced Man Award Ceremony for August 20, at the TCU Alumni Center. The keynote speaker is TCU Chancellor Victor Boschini.

The Lyle Legacy: Four Generations of SigEp

On April 3, 2005, Matthew Lyle Schaefer, South Florida '08, did something rare in Sigma Phi Epsilon. He became a fourth generation SigEp.

His grandfather, R. Terry Lyle, Florida '48, was the first when he became a Brother at the University of Florida in 1942. Over the next 62 years, Terry's two biological brothers, Lloyd S. Lyle, '50, and William L. Lyle, Sr., '64, their father, Guss L. Lyle, 1903 (honorarily initiated in 1960), and two of Terry's nephews (Bill's sons William L. Lyle, Jr., '86, and Robert Lyle, honorarily initiated in 1996) all became SigEps at the University of Florida.

When Terry learned that his grandson would attend the University of South Florida, he gave him some advice on joining a fraternity, "Join one. But find the one that fits you."

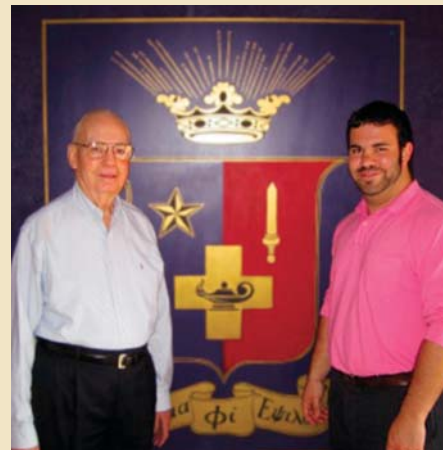

Matt found SigEp.

"I remember the times my SigEp relatives talked about how they learned about brotherhood, camaraderie and about themselves through the Fraternity," Matt recalled. What most impressed him about SigEp at the University of South Florida was the chapter's emphasis on developing a Sound Mind and Sound Body.

Terry Lyle honored his grandson's initiation into the Fraternity with a gift to the chapter's scholarship fund within the Educational Foundation. He was proud not only of his grandson, but also of the caliber of men found in the chapter.

He wanted to recognize the chapter for its efforts and celebrate a milestone.

His gift will make it possible for future Brothers to benefit from Sigma Phi Epsilon scholarships, and make it possible for another four generations of SigEps to flourish.

R. Terry Lyle and Matthew Lyle Schaefer

There are many occasions that alumni, parents, undergraduates and friends of the Fraternity choose to honor with a gift to the Educational Foundation. Find your special occasion and donate to the Educational Foundation.

"To give away money is an easy matter and in any man's power. But to decide to whom to give it, and how large and when and for what purpose and how, is neither in every man's power nor an easy matter."

—Aristotle

The Zollinger Seniors

The Zollinger Senior Award is presented to the outstanding senior in each district of Sigma Phi Epsilon and is chosen by the District Governor for that district. These Brothers represent the best of Sigma Phi Epsilon. Each Zollinger Senior chapter selects an outstanding sophomore, the Zollinger Scholar, who receives a scholarship from the Educational Foundation in his junior and senior years. The Zollinger Scholars are chapter members who possess special potential for future leadership roles in the chapter and on campus. These awards are made possible by the generosity of Past Grand President and Order of the Golden Heart recipient J. Edward Zollinger, William & Mary '27.

Chuck White Retires After Four Decades with Sigma Phi Epsilon

Chuck White, Western Michigan '62, retired as President of the Educational Foundation in December, 2005, after devoting 40 years of his professional career to Sigma Phi Epsilon. He came to the Fraternity's staff in 1962 as a Regional Director, and, for the next four decades, he helped shape and guide SigEp to its current position in the fraternity world. Brother White recently spent time with The Journal to reflect on his experiences. We are indebted to him for his many contributions and are honored to share this fascinating piece with you. Enjoy!

What are your memories of your undergraduate days at Western Michigan?

I recall the SigEp house at 305 Stuart Avenue being a warm and inviting place where you could always find a card game or a sporting event on the TV, and always find Brothers hanging out. We operated a meal plan that required all Brothers to eat dinner at the house, so 305 Stuart was the center for all communications and chapter operations. We had a wonderful housemother, "Mom Karol," who held etiquette sessions at dinner and never hesitated to correct infractions at dinner or elsewhere in the house. She slept on a pull out bed in a small room that also served as a parlor and entryway to the dining room during the day. Mom Karol lived in this cramped and very public setting for a dozen years or more because she loved Sigma Phi Epsilon and all of her "boys." We would have been a very different Fraternity without her.

When I arrived at Western I lived in a dormitory without a meal plan. My floor had a very independent group of students, many of them army veterans. I did not plan to join a fraternity until one of my hall mates, Greg Hastings, invited me over to the house for a rush event. At this time Michigan Beta had more than 100 members, the largest fraternity on campus, and was a rushing machine. Jim Bernard was rush chairman and to this day I have never known a better one. Jim could motivate all 100 members to meet and greet and make each rushee feel special. Everyone knew the program, how to talk about the Fraternity, and how to close a bid.

There were strong influences in our chapter because our junior and senior members stayed involved until graduation. With their active presence, you learned a lot about life and about Fraternity. We also had a very strong chapter counselor and alumni board.

The experience of a large chapter, a powerful rush program, a house that brought us all together, a great house-mother, a strong financial operation and a relationship with the national fraternity gave me a strong foundation for serving on Sigma Phi Epsilon's professional staff.

What SigEp professional positions have you held (and when)?

Regional Director: 1962-1963;
Assistant Housing Director: 1963;
Chapter Services Director: 1967-1972;
Executive Director: 1972-1988; and Foundation President: 1989-2005.

When and why did you come back to Headquarters?

I returned in May, 1967, after serving as an officer in the U.S. Army's John F. Kennedy Special Warfare Center at Ft. Bragg, North Carolina, where I met and married Susan Leonard.

Dick Shimpfky, then Chapter Services Director, who would later become a Bishop of the Episcopal Church, was leaving in the summer of 1967 for the Seminary. Executive Director Don Johnson came to Cincinnati to recruit me with a good sales pitch on the Fraternity's needs and opportunities. We had just had a baby, Michelle, so Susan was happy to get closer to her family in North Carolina, and I had loved my time in Richmond in the early 60s. That summer the new headquarters on Chamberlayne Road was completed and the decision to expand the regional director staff had been made, so these were exciting times for Sigma Phi Epsilon.

The 1960s

This started out as the era when the Richmond staff made a commitment to providing expanded services to the chapters. A national leadership academy was created, support materials were developed, automated membership records established, alumni programs started, and the Regional Director staff was expanded. All of this started out well with the relationship between undergraduate chapters and the national organization improving. Then the Vietnam War and the resulting student activism of the later 60s and early 70s shifted the national Fraternity's focus from service to survival.

The mood of student activism and the drug culture that accompanied it perceived the fraternity system as an arm of the establishment. Recruiting dropped dramatically and vacancies in our chapter houses increased significantly. This was occurring just as I returned to the staff, so I was faced with an immediate crisis. The staff and the Board of Directors made a decision to continue our service commitment to chapters and to help them with this new challenge.

Chuck and Susan White

Susan and I celebrated our 40th wedding anniversary in 2005, the same year I retired after 40 years of service to Sigma Phi Epsilon. We were living in Cincinnati working for Procter & Gamble when the call came to come back to Richmond to work with Sigma Phi Epsilon. Our youngest daughter, Michelle, had just been born, our oldest, Laura, was just five; we had a new home and my career with P&G looked promising. Susan agreed to the move because she understood the Fraternity was important to me and we would be back near North Carolina where she grew up and we were married.

Working for a large national organization means a lot of travel, a lot of time away from family, and, in the case of a volunteer driven, non profit organization, it means being away from your family on weekends. I am not sure either of us realized just how much I would be away when we started this adventure.

While the children were young, I traveled much of the time and, because of Susan's support at home, was able to be away developing the Carlson Leadership Academies, supporting the field staff, attending volunteer lead committee meetings, working on the Conclaves and being active in National Interfraternity Conference (NIC) programs and taking a leadership role in the Fraternity Executives Association (FEA).

During this time Susan developed a successful retail antique business. And today she continues to sell and is active as an appraiser, designer, and consultant.

When the Campaign for the Heart was under way in 1990-1993, the children were on their own so Susan could travel more, and she did. In addition to attending 15 Conclaves, she was able to attend Campaign events across the country with me and was a big part of their success.

Susan has been my partner in supporting Sigma Phi Epsilon and the Educational Foundation. This story is as much about her as it is about me. Without her support, I could not have taken on the challenges that came with my responsibilities for the Fraternity and Foundation.

Chuck White is one of the most remarkable Brothers I've had the pleasure to work with over the years.

"The modern era of the Fraternity has been a success largely because of the behind the scenes work of Chuck White. Whatever success the Foundation has had in endowing the future of the Fraternity, and we owe a lot to several great leaders who filled the job so well after my brief service, much of that success is due to the love Chuck White showed in so many ways for the Fraternity."

— Past Grand President, Past Chairman of the Educational Foundation and Order of the Golden Heart recipient

Eric Weise, U. of Cincinnati '54

Chuck was the catalyst for all the volunteers who helped bring us to the top. He inspired people to achieve goals that otherwise seemed unattainable. Chuck, for 40 years, was the glue that held us together and the power that pushed us forward. Without him SigEp would be just another Fraternity. Over the years, Chuck became one of my dearest personal friends. He made me realize the value of contributing to the Fraternity in both time and resource. I am a better person because I came to know Chuck White."

Wally Doud, Wisconsin '48

The 1970s

In a macro sense we survived the challenges as well as any fraternity, better than most. But now came the time for rebuilding. The Regional Leadership Academies (now the Carlsons) were created in 1973 to bring new chapter officers together for training and to share best practices. SigEp was the first fraternity to attempt this and it was a challenge. Now we were putting on eight or nine leadership programs over a four to five week period during the academic year, rather than just one during the summer. We were successful, and I credit this one operational program with SigEp's success in rebuilding and eventually becoming the dominant national Fraternity.

My strongest memory of the 70s is the financial crisis we faced as a result of our loss of undergraduate membership and the investment we had made in staff and chapter housing while experiencing a significant drop in income. We went in debt each summer because we could not cover our costs when chapters were not operating. We would borrow money in June and repay it during the new academic year. This continued for much of the 70s.

My key mentors during this time were Ed Zollinger, who executed the plan to keep SigEp alive; Eric Weise, whose intellect gave us a broad vision for rebuilding; Mac MacDonough, whose creativity gave us our marketing capability; and Frank Ruck, whose background in finance saved us from bankruptcy. Frank was also a new age thinker whose leadership would continue on into the 80s and 90s, leading Sigma Phi Epsilon to "Building Balanced Leaders for the World's Communities."

The 70s laid the foundation for what became a very bright future.

The 1980s

This was a time to consolidate and focus on the quality of the SigEp undergraduate experience. The National Housing Corporation was energized to address a long-term need that was perhaps SigEp's most compelling, and a great opportunity to help our chapters and alumni householding corporations. The Sigma Phi Epsilon Educational Foundation was energized with the emergence of Bill Schreyer and Curt Carlson as its leaders.

While we continued to build larger membership numbers, in retrospect, the reasons young men were joining fraternities during this time were wrong for the Fraternity. We began to see alcohol use and abuse increasing, and, with the national age to drink increasing to 21, most of our chapter members were illegally consuming alcohol. This resulted in fraternity-related accidents, injuries and deaths. The personal injury attorneys joined in the assault, and, as a result, we began to spend more and more time in depositions and in court. Most insurance limits were too low to deal with the damages being sought, and most insurance companies were dropping coverage.

Very quickly, the successes we had been enjoying were overshadowed by the exposure to being driven out of business through the increasing liabilities we faced in court.

The Fraternity Executive Association (FEA), the group that represents all fraternity executives, became involved by forming a risk management association that developed guidelines for health and safety at members' chapters. I was the incoming president of the FEA, so pulling all of this together consumed most of my time in the office. We were successful and the insurance markets improved.

The National Board of Directors took a very strong lead on this, implementing risk management policies and putting together a comprehensive liability insurance program that covered each chapter and its volunteers. The cost was significant and put a heavy financial burden on each chapter that continues today.

Toward the end of the 80s we had a clear need for a comprehensive approach to leadership training to provide our undergraduates with the tools to recruit the right men and to enhance their experience in Sigma Phi Epsilon. Frank Ruck and Bill Tragos were two key movers on this. Frank wanted to stop our chapter houses from being saloons. He wanted an environment where the best men on campus would come to build an experience that would influence them for the rest of their lives. Bill Tragos was the key to maintaining intellectual discipline. Bill had the experience of founding and developing a successful worldwide advertising agency. Focus is the one word that describes what Bill brought to me as a mentor. He persisted in getting me to decide what was important, and constantly keep it in the forefront, with Chuck has a great ability to get things done for the Educational Foundation. He has been extremely effective. He led by his example and made us all very pleased to be part of the Foundation – while always behaving in a way that led others to trust him.

"Immediately after a face-to-face meeting with Chuck, or a telephone call, after addressing the challenges of the moment, we almost always would reflect on the joys of success and fraternal feelings of Sigma Phi Epsilon."

all our work directed to doing what we determined to be important to SigEp's success.

To achieve what we set forth would require a large investment in programming and in chapter housing.

I was ready for a new challenge at this point and agreed to make a full-time commitment to our Educational Foundation. In 1987, former staff member Ken Maddox was recruited and hired to be the new Sigma Phi Epsilon Executive Director and I moved to the Foundation as President.

At the end of 1988, the headquarters relocated from Chamberlayne Road to the Boulevard near the original site of Richmond College and Ryland Hall. The new building, an historic early 1900s Italian Villa known as the Baskerville Mansion, was a better feel for a fraternity headquarters and got us out of a rapidly deteriorating area of Richmond.

My first fund raising success was an early leadership gift to the Campaign for the Heart (see the 1990s) made by the family of J. Edward Zollinger. Mrs. Lucile Zollinger, her son Jack, a Lehigh SigEp, and her daughter Frances, provided a naming gift for the new headquarters. Zollinger House is widely known as Sigma Phi Epsilon Headquarters and has been a wonderful home for the Fraternity.

Chuck with Lucille Zollinger, J. Edward Zollinger's wife

The 1990s

Zollinger House was dedicated in May, 1990, with a large contingent of SigEp leaders, undergraduates, parents and friends on hand to see Mrs. Zollinger cut the ribbon. It was a beautiful spring day and represented the good things that were ahead for Sigma Phi Epsilon.

The 90s were a time to fully develop the comprehensive approach to leadership training that would cement SigEp leadership in the fraternity world. Frank Ruck led the task force that developed the Balanced Man Program. This pioneering concept of equal membership from day one—unique in the Fraternity world—met a lot of initial resistance from SigEp alumni and chapters. With methodical development of the unique aspects of the program and with committed leadership on the national level, the program took hold and today is the model many fraternities look to for their membership program.

At the same time, the Sigma Phi Epsilon Educational Foundation began planning a fund raising campaign to provide the financial resources to fund the Balanced Man Program and to develop additional new initiatives for exposing SigEp undergraduates to the best leadership practices.

In 1991, the Foundation announced its $5 million Campaign for the Heart. Curt “Chuck ‘found me’ if you will. I had been working and living in Europe for some 17 years before returning to the states in 1977. He listened to Bill MacDonough’s opinion that I could be an interesting idea contributor to the Fraternity. He recruited me relentlessly and I was elected to the National Board of Directors.

“I have to credit Chuck with assuring that my term as Grand President would be a helpful one for SigEp. He told me in no uncertain terms that we had to bridge the gap between old fashioned pledging chapters and the new BMP chapters, and again he helped get a mighty effort underway which continues today. Namely, that all chapters of SigEp share the positive idea of helping our young men live their best lives, that all chapters, regardless of their particular new member development can and should promote the concepts of Sound Mind and Sound Body. That has been a huge and wonderful propellant to SigEp’s rise to its current preeminence among all college fraternities. Thank you, Chuck.”

— Past Grand President, Order of the Golden Heart and Citation recipient

Bill Tragos, Washington U. in St. Louis '56

Carlson, who had created the successful Carlson Companies and Bill Schreyer, Chairman of Merrill Lynch & Company, teamed up as Campaign Chairman and Foundation Chairman, respectively. Out of this grew a well endowed Foundation with the resources to better support undergraduate programs. In 1993, at the Dallas Conclave, Curt and Bill announced that the $5 million goal had been surpassed with a total of $7 million raised.

Once again I was fortunate to work with two national leaders who knew how to define priorities and focus on results. Every month for two years, I would go to Minneapolis to meet with Curt and plan donor visits, and to New York to meet with Bill to report on progress. Curt and Bill opened doors and key alumni opened their hearts and their checkbooks to support SigEp undergraduates.

During the Campaign for the Heart, a side benefit for Sigma Phi Epsilon was the engagement of many alumni who had been away from the Fraternity since graduation. Joining Curt Carlson and Bill Schreyer on the Foundation's Board of Directors were Brothers Tom Hicks, a successful merchant banker; "H" Clark, Chairman of Nalco Chemical; Gene Brewer, Chairman of Champion International; Mack Rankin, founder of Freeport McMoRan; Bob Stempel, Chairman of General Motors; Jim Clayton, founder of Clayton Homes; Wally Doud, IBM Corporate Vice President; Red Poling, Chairman of Ford Motor Company; Dr. Jay Harness, a noted surgeon; Garry Kief, President of Stiletto Entertainment; Scott Baxter, an internet pioneer; and Don Hudler, Chairman of Saturn Automobile Corporation.

One of the most engaged of these newly active alumni has been Garry Kief. In 1989, Garry attend his first Conclave since graduation and was immediately impressed with the quality and commitment of the undergraduates in attendance. Garry volunteered to be the producer of the 1991 Conclave, where we announced the Campaign for the Heart. His experience in producing tours for stars like Barry Manilow and Broadway shows brought a new dimension to SigEp Conclaves. Garry has continued to make our Conclaves very special.

The last five years have been a time to develop a new dimension for the Balanced Man that Bill Tragos envisioned and championed during his Grand Presidency. The Balanced Man: Sound Mind/Sound Body. This, together with a focus on academic performance, continues to make Sigma Phi Epsilon the Fraternity to emulate.

In the 70s Chuck and Frank Ruck stubbornly guided us through some existence-threatening financial times. In the years to follow, Chuck became the gatekeeper of our Fraternity and always demanded that things be done the 'right-right way' even when his opinions were not popular. Second only to the Founding Fathers, Chuck White has been the single most important factor in Sigma Phi Epsilon being recognized as the best college fraternity in the world today."

— National Housing Corporation Trustee
Shawn McKenna, Maine '77

I was fortunate to be involved in helping design and implement the EDGE and its predecessor the New Member Camps, the Tragos Quest to Greece, and the Residential Learning Community, and to have the support of SigEp leaders like Bill Schreyer, "H" Clark, Wally Doud, Bill Tragos and Garry Kief who nurtured and supported the vision we have for Sigma Phi Epsilon.

As the Foundation enters a new era, it will build on recent initiatives included in the Leadership Continuum, the focus of the Foundation's support for undergraduate leadership development. The EDGE, the Carlson Leadership Academy, the Ruck Leadership Institute and the Tragos Quest to Greece, together with the concept of the Residential Learning Community that is just now taking hold, are the solid foundation for SigEp's future.

Who were your mentors and confidants, and how did they influence you?

I have mentioned most of them discussing the Fraternity's progress over the last five decades, but there are a few special ones who need to be thanked. Barry Posner, who understands leadership and has always been just a phone call away; Shawn McKenna, who understands focus and results and has been supportive in all of my challenges; and Wally Doud has been the person I turned to for advice on any issue. When I needed optimism and logic Bill Schreyer is there with a personal interest. When I want a challenge Bill Tragos is the go to guy.

And there are those Brothers who were actively involved in designing programs and supporting the work of the Foundation. Brothers like Mitch Crane, Conrad Eberstein, Mike Borkan, John Grayson, Jay Harness, Bob Hartsook, Lamar Roach, Keith Smith, Bill Davenport, John Tyler, Rod Smart, and many others who make personal investments in our Fraternity through the Foundation.

A key behind the scenes player is the Foundation's Administrative Coordinator Susan Ilch, who has been on the staff for 20 years. Susan knows the ins and outs of all Foundation programs and keeps them on an even keel. She knows many of the Foundation's key donors, and skillfully and efficiently handles a myriad of telephone inquiries on a daily basis.

Chuck White welcomed me home to my Fraternity. After many years of distance, I will always remember the phone call that ended with "why don't you come home to Conclave?" For that alone Chuck will always hold a special place in my SigEp Heart.

Through the years he became my mentor, my friend, my Big Brother. He persisted when everyone thought we would fail. He pursued new creative ideas while professing that he was stuck in the past. He drove me nuts.

But God I love him.

Miss him.

And remind him that you are a SigEp for life.

So why don't you come home to Conclave?

— Chairman of the Educational Foundation and Citation recipient

Garry C. Kief, Southern California '70

What makes SigEp a worthy charity for alumni, parents and friends?

That is really simple. The undergraduates of Sigma Phi Epsilon. They take care of our Fraternity every day under difficult operational circumstances and do a really good job. Sigma Phi Epsilon's scholarship and leadership programs for them are worthy.

What are your hopes and dreams for SigEp?

To maintain focus, never stop innovating, constantly believe in the undergraduate, and to create a better understanding of the important contribution the Sigma Phi Epsilon Educational Foundation makes to our Fraternity's successes.

What is next for you?

Susan and I are going to take care of many things we have been holding on the back burner for several years. We have four grandchildren and a pony. We have places to see and friends to visit. I will continue to be active in Richmond in Crime Stoppers, the Goochland County Rural Leadership Initiative and the West Richmond Rotary Club. And I hope to be volunteering with the Goochland County Sheriff when my new knees are working as promised.

Rowe Scores Winning Run in College World Series

Oregon State University first baseman Bill Rowe, California-Santa Barbara '06, scored the go-ahead run in the deciding game against the University of North Carolina in the College World Series. Brother Rowe drew a two-out walk in the eighth inning and scored two batters later off of an error by the Tarheels' second baseman. He finished his senior year with a .341 batting average, 22 doubles and six home runs, and batted an impressive .357 in the Beavers' eight game tournament run. In late June, he signed a contract with the Milwaukee Brewers and was assigned to the Rookie League Helena Brewers.

Brother Rowe joined the California Gamma Chapter at the University of California-Santa Barbara and lettered on the baseball team for three years. He transferred to Oregon State University in 2005 to finish his collegiate career, and played in 66 games for the Beavers in 2005-2006. Yale Graduates Two Fulbright Scholars

Proposed by Senator J. William Fulbright in the wake of World War II and signed into law in 1946, the Fulbright Program is the largest U.S. exchange program offering opportunities for students to undertake international graduate study, advanced research, university teaching, and teaching in elementary and secondary schools worldwide. The U.S. Student Program currently awards approximately 1,200 grants annually in all fields of study and operates in more than 140 countries worldwide. SigEp Fulbright Scholars are Balanced Men learning to lead the world's communities.

Brother Dadok

Brother Qaddumi

Alex Dadok, '06, and Tammer Qaddumi, '06, are Fulbright Scholars from the same chapter, Connecticut Delta at Yale University, and class year, a first for SigEp. Brother Dadok will be based in Lima, Peru, where he be studying the connection between active citizen participation in the political process and the quality of policymaking. His focus will be on policy in public health and education. Brother Qaddumi's research will focus on urban/economic development in the Middle East. By 2020 the World Bank predicts the city-dwelling population in that region will more than double, and Brother Qaddumi will conduct his research in Damascus, Syria. Look for a future story in The Journal on both brothers' experiences as Fulbright Scholars.

Rutgers and a Host of SigEp Chapters Across the Country Sweep Greek Awards

SigEp at Rutgers wraps another successful year by winning awards at the annual Greek Awards Dinner.

Highlights include winning the Keller Cup for winning intramurals and receiving programming achievement for academics, brotherhood development, chapter management, community service, leadership development, new member education, and standards and accountability. SigEp also earned the Chapter Excellence Award. Several individual Brothers received awards. Gregory Hort, '06, won the Greek Leader of Distinction Award and Outstanding Greek Scholar Award. Brother Hort has a 4.0 GPA and is the number one student in the engineering school. Past Chapter President Jessie Hanna, '06, received the Emit Denis Spirit of Service Award, and the chapter received the fall, 2005, Community Service Recognition Award for posting the most community service hours.

Chapters that do not live up to the ideals of Sigma Phi Epsilon bring dishonor and disgrace to our name. The Journal reports these stories to inform its readers and to show that actions have consequences.

New Hampshire Gamma, University of New Hampshire

Reason: Risk Management; Failure to Meet Minimum Standards

Action: Chapter Closed

The New Hampshire Gamma Chapter violated several university and Fraternity risk management policies which poses a serious threat to the chapter members and Sigma Phi Epsilon. In the Fall, 2005, semester, there were reports of two alleged sexual assaults. These are currently under investigation by local authorities.

In the past three years, the chapter accrued a significant debt with Headquarters, defaulted on several payment plans without explanation, and violated the 30/60/90-day policy for annual billings during the 2003-2004 and 2004-2005 academic years. In addition, the chapter failed to meet the Grand Chapter's minimum standard for academics with a 2.22 GPA for the Fall, 2004, term and a 2.43 for the Spring, 2005, term.

Left with few options, the National Board of Directors closed the New Hampshire Gamma Chapter at the University of New Hampshire.

Virginia Iota, James Madison University

Reason: Risk Management; Failure to Meet Minimum Standards

Action: Chapter Closed

For years, the Virginia Iota Chapter was a high performing SigEp chapter. James Madison University continues to be a rising institution in Virginia. Over the last decade, the Virginia Iota Chapter failed to move with the times and capitalize on a university growing in size and reputation. The chapter consistently performed below Sigma Phi Epsilon's minimum performance requirements for manpower, academics, and chapter finances.

Further, the chapter put the Fraternity and university at risk. In the last year, two chapter events led to the hospitalization of three people for alcohol-related illnesses. All were under the legal drinking age. One victim was a 16-year-old female.

The National Board of Directors closed the Virginia Iota Chapter at James Madison University.

Indiana Alpha, Purdue University

Reason: Risk Management

Action: Chapter Suspended; Chapter Surcharged $5,000

An event on November 15, 2005, led to the hospitalization of an under-aged new member for alcohol consumption. Both the university and the National Board of Directors suspended the chapter, and launched an investigation and found a culture focused on alcohol. Chapter leaders are working with local volunteers and the university administration to improve the chapter's environment.

Sigma Phi Epsilon at Purdue is suspended until May 1, 2007, at which time it will be eligible to regain full status.

Alabama Beta, University of Alabama

Reason: Hazing

Action: Chapter Suspension

Near the end of the spring semester, a parent reported allegations of hazing to the university and Sigma Phi Epsilon Headquarters. The National Board of Directors suspended the chapter's charter pending a full investigation. A membership review took place, and half of the chapter's members were suspended. The chapter is working with local volunteers, the University of Alabama and Sigma Phi Epsilon to improve the chapter's environment.

standing House Director Award. The chapter placed second in outstanding philanthropy. Dan Wenhold, '09, received second place in the Outstanding New Member category, and Jeff Harden, '07, received second place in the Outstanding Chapter President category. Rick Nowak, '07, received second place in the Greek Man of the Year category. The chapter placed third for Internal Operations, Outstanding House Corporation and Chapter of the Year categories.

Johns Hopkins, Maryland Alpha

SigEp ends the academic year on top and poised for the future. Manpower is at 79 men, and Brothers are leading the campus in a variety of positions. Keith Pifko, '07, is the current Interfraternity Council President and the third consecutive IFC President from the chapter. Brothers Thomas Zipser, '06, and Mike Kelly-Sell, '06, previously served in that capacity. Prasanna Chandrasekhar, '09, is President of the Freshman Class. Brothers Kelly-Sell, Devin Demers, '07, and Aaron Landgraf, '06, are captains for the tennis, track and rugby teams, respectively. Lukas Bujaj, '07, and Teddy Drivas, '07, are co-captains for the crew team. The chapter boasts 30 varsity athletes on the crew, tennis, and volleyball teams. For the past four years, the chapter won the all-campus intramurals and Interfraternity athletics.

Loyola Marymount, California Chi

During the Greek Awards Banquet, SigEp swept the fraternity awards, winning every honor offered. The chapter's Faculty Advisor and recent Renaissance of Brotherhood Initiate, Father William Fulco, S.J., received the "Advisor of the Year" award. At the Academic Awards Banquet, Brother Fulco received the Professor of the Year award. Lowell Trott, '08, received the "Community Service Man of the Year" award. Brother Lowell coordinated the chapter's AIDS Awareness Week for Youth AIDS and Fall Festival for the Boys and Girls Club of Venice Beach. Ray Crosby, '06, received both the "Greek Man of the Year" and the inaugural "Greek Scholar of the Year." Brother Crosby graduated magna cum laude with a BA in English and minors in applied mathematics and German.

Miami University, Ohio Eta Residential Learning Community (RLC)

SigEp received several accolades during the Greek Life Awards. The chapter won Academic Achievement, Dean's Achievement, SPIRIT, Excellence in Scholarship/Learning and Excellence in Brotherhood Awards. Samori Gambrah, '05, received the Outstanding Chapter President Award.

Washington U. in St. Louis, Missouri Beta

At the end of the spring semester, SigEp and Alpha Phi Sorority raised $38,000 for the Thurtene Carnival, the most ever raised in the 99-year history of the largest attended student-run event in the country. Of this amount, $24,000 went to St. Louis SCORES, a charity that brings soccer, poetry and community to urban youths in the area. SigEp and Alpha Phi employed a wide variety of methods to raise the funds. These included mailing appeals to parents and alumni, asking for donations. Members sold magazines and advertising space on the Thurtene Carnival program to community businesses. Each group creates a façade and performs plays for carnival participants to enjoy.

Ohio State, Ohio Gamma Residential Learning Community (RLC)

Recently Ohio State named SigEp the Outstanding Student Organization. This is the first time a fraternity earned this honor, and SigEp beat out over 800 student organizations to receive it. In addition, individual brothers obtained similar awards for their accomplishments within the campus community. Jon McCann, '09, Matt Mason, '09, and Rian Rainey, '09, secured Outstanding First Year Students. Srinivas Kondapalli, '08, received the Outstanding Student Organization Leader, and seniors Adam Schwartz, '07, and Aaron Wilcox, '06, captured Most Outstanding Senior awards. Faculty Advisor Don Stenta received the Outstanding Student Organization Advisor. Overall, Sigma Phi Epsilon seized five out of a dozen category awards.

Pennsylvania State, Pennsylvania Eta

The Pennsylvania Eta Chapter received recognition for meeting the minimum and reasonable expectations established by the university. Additionally, the chapter is one of three receiving recognition as a chapter of excellence. SigEp is the IFC Chapter of the Year and the Penn State University Chapter of the Year. Founder of Penn State's Greek Ambassadors program and recent graduate Jon Bronitsky, '06, will be studying international relations at the University of Cambridge.

San Diego State, California Delta

The KCAL morning show in San Diego hosted Chapter President Justin Motika, '07, and IFC President Burley Wright, '07, on its morning show to talk about the chapter's Sound Mind and Sound Body events. Brothers Motika and Wright talked about the chapter's etiquette dinners and salsa dance lessons with sororities.

Texas Christian, Texas Gamma

At the Celebration of University Leadership, the Texas Gamma Chapter received four out of five awards given by the Order of Omega. These awards went to Thomas Pressly, '09, Freshman of the Year; John Wood, '08, Sophomore of the Year; Jace Thompson, '08, Junior of the Year; and Matt Freedman, '08, Academics. Brother Thompson also won a Pillars of Leadership Award. In addition, Matt Owens, '07, won the Clark Society Scholarship and the Susan B. Adams Scholarship for Greek Leadership.

U. of San Diego, California Beta Beta

SigEp at the University of San Diego hosted the school's annual Philanthropy Week and raised $33,913.30 for the Make-a-Wish Foundation. This money was donated in the name of the Fraternity and USD's Greek Life. Their efforts included an all-school carnival, skit night and a casino night that included the entire campus community. With this money the organization will be able to grant five wishes to children.

Meet Johns Hopkins Tennis Captain, 3.85 GPA, IFC President and Balanced Man

Michael Kelly-Sell, '06, is a busy man. He spends his summers doing research in the Johns Hopkins Hospital. He is proficient in Italian and spent a semester studying in Italy. During his senior year, he was inducted into Phi Beta Kappa. He led the Greek system as the Interfraternity Council (IFC) President, and he was captain of the varsity tennis team. Before he heads home after graduating with honors in cellular and molecular biology, he and Bryan J. Kaminski, '06, are reorganizing a basketball league for Baltimore's inner city youth. In short, he epitomizes the Balanced Man as a varsity scholar athlete, and he is not the only one in the Maryland Alpha Chapter.

Most of this 80-man chapter competes in either varsity or club level sports, providing Michael with a network of brothers with similar aspirations. This helped Michael perfect habits that allowed him to excel. He stood out in the classroom. During his junior year, he represented the chapter at IFC meetings presided by fellow chapter Brother Thomas Zipser, '06. He practiced hard on the tennis court; he was the only graduating senior who played all four years. His poise and leadership made him a natural selection for captain his senior year.

During his undergraduate days, a typical day for Michael began at 8:00 a.m. with breakfast and then studying before class started at 10:00 a.m. He powered through classes until 3:00 p.m. when practice began. After two hours of practice, he ate dinner and hit the library or attended meetings until midnight. He always got at least eight hours of sleep each night. For Michael, sleep is the most important aspect to achieving Sound Mind and Sound Body. "When you get eight hours of sleep you have 16 hours to get everything else done," he said. "Putting your day into that framework makes it possible to experience a lot more than just classes and practice."

He believes the Balanced Man Ideal benefits everyone. "Whether it is going for a 30-minute run or hitting tennis balls, exercise relieves stress and helps you live your best life," he added. "I tried to maintain a Sound Mind by studying things outside of my science field, like Italian art and history."

Brother Kelly-Sell

Brother Kelly-Sell plans to spend his first year out of college in a science or clinical research lab, and, in the fall of 2007, attend medical school at the University of Michigan, Harvard University or Duke University. He hopes to one day study stem cells and translate the research from the labs to the clinics. With his dedication to Sound Mind and Sound Body, he will continue to do extraordinary things, and The Journal hopes to highlight his success in the near future.

SigEp s and YouthAIDS

Bucknell Raises $20,000 for YouthAIDS with Charity Golf Tournament and Long-Drive Competition

In the fall of 2005, SigEp at Bucknell organized a golf tournament and long-drive competition that raised funds for YouthAIDS by obtaining sponsorships from family, friends, and local businesses. For each yard driven, the sponsors paid $1.00, and, by the end of the day, $10,000 was raised for YouthAIDS. Through the Kiehl's College Challenge to benefit YouthAIDS, Kiehl's Since 1851 matched the chapter's donation. In March of 2006, Chapter President Patrick O'Malley, '07, and Vice President of Programming Brian Troast, '06, journeyed to New York City, and, in partnership with Kiehl's, presented a $20,000 check to YouthAIDS at the Kiehl's flagship store. Brian and Patrick appeared on the CBS Early Show for a few seconds to highlight their success, and Brothers from the New York Gamma Chapter at New York University also attended the day's events.

The Campaign for Indiana University; Returning SigEp to Its Home

The proud history of the Indiana Beta Chapter speaks for itself through leadership at Indiana University and among the National Fraternity by receiving six Buchanan Cups (1975, '77, '79, '81, '83, and '85). For nearly 70 years, the common bond of Virtue, Diligence, and Brotherly Love has had a lasting effect on those invited to membership at IU. This effect has carried over in service to the National Fraternity with Indiana Beta alumnus and National Housing Corporation (NHC) Trustee Clark Byrum, '57, receiving the Order of the Golden Heart, Phillip A. Cox, '84, serving on the National Board of Directors, and four alumni (Brother Cox; W. Erik Foster, '91, Robert J. Hanrahan, III, '76, Colonel Robert W. Lanham, '77, and Steven Schottenstein, '78) serving as regional directors upon graduation.

While we are certainly proud of our historic achievements, the Indiana Beta Chapter experienced trying times recently. After several years of both financial and behavioral irresponsibility, it was deemed that the members were no longer living up to the standards and expectations of Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity. The decision was made by the National Board of Directors to revoke the charter of the chapter in December 2002. In January 2003, several alumni and the Headquarters staff came to the aid of Indiana Beta and formed a corporation that purchased the property and chapter house before it was sold to cover increasing debt.

Our Goal: Reacquiring 815 North Jordan to make it our home...again.

For Sigma Phi Epsilon to return as a premier fraternity at IU, alumni leadership determined that reacquiring the nearly 19,500 square foot facility at 815 North Jordan was necessary. A dedicated group of alumni, led by John K. Banks, '77, William E. Becker, '72, Brother Cox, Brother Hanrahan, Dennis A. Johnson, '82, and Gregory J. Pusinelli, '80, initiated the Honoring Our Past, Securing Our Future campaign.

With the assistance of Jason A. Cherish, St. Louis U. '03, Director of New Chapter Development, and Pennington & Company, the recognized leader in fraternity fundraising, this campaign to return Sigma Phi Epsilon to Indiana University and Indiana Beta to 815 North Jordan commenced in fall 2004. Since that time, Sigma Phi Epsilon has returned to Indiana University with 44 initial members and nearly $1.2 million raised thanks to the time and financial commitments of the chapter's alumni.

The goal to recruit students of high quality—men who will lead SigEp to future success—is underway. Upon moving into the facility, our Fraternity house will serve as a Residential Learning Community, including the return of a housemother/faculty fellow and an alumni mentor committee consisting of Indiana Beta alumni and community leaders.

The Red Door will once again welcome Indiana Beta alumni and all Sigma Phi Epsilon members from across the country to a premiere facility.
